The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ramarethinam et al in view of Lehmborg et al (US 5952023) for the reasons set forth in rejecting the claims in the last Office action.

Ramarethinam et al disclose the treatment of rolled tea material with sprayed lipase (see entire document, especially page 331).

The claims differ as to the use of a solvent and drying.

Lehmborg et al disclose the treatment of tea with lipase wherein water is the solvent for the enzyme and the product is dried (see entire patent, especially claims 1, 5, 6, and 9).

It would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art, at the time the invention was made, to use water and drying as taught by Lehmborg et al in that of Ramarethinam et al because the use of water allows for uniform enzyme distribution and drying is conventional in the tea art.

Applicant is using known components for their art-recognized function to obtain no more than expected results.

Applicant's arguments filed July 1, 2009 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that Lehmberg et al add an enzyme to an extract after fermentation.

First, it is noted that the claims are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ramarethinam et al in view of Lehmberg et al (US 5952023).

Applicant does not address Ramarethinam et al.

Lehmberg et al is cited to teach water as a conventional solvent for lipase and the conventional step of drying.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
